INTRODUCTION

Law enforcement in Indonesia needs law enforcement officials who are reliable, dignified, devoted, intelligent, law-abiding and broad-minded, so that law enforcement officers are created who are liked and respected by the public, especially law enforcers within the Indonesian National Police. The definition of law enforcement is a process to make legal wishes come true, what is referred to as legal wishes here are none other than the thoughts of the legislature that is formulated in that regulation. (Sukarto Marmosudjono, 1989:12) Law enforcement will always involve humans in it. The law cannot stand by itself, meaning that it is unable to realize its own desires contained in the law. Concrete enforcement of criminal law is realized by criminal procedural law, namely through the process of investigation, prosecution, trial examination and execution carried out by each law enforcement agency, namely: Police, Prosecutors, Judges, and the Execution Agency (Penitentiary Institution).

The police are one of the government agencies whose job is to maintain security and public order. Police means everything related to the police or in short police affairs. (H. Hilman Hadikusuma, 2005:167) The aim of the Indonesian National Police is to realize domestic security which includes the maintenance of security and public order, order and law enforcement. The implementation of protection, protection and service to the community, as well as orderly public order, by upholding human rights is regulated in Article 4 of Law Number 2 of 2002 concerning the Police.

In Article 5 of Law No. 2 of 2002 it states that the National Police of the Republic of Indonesia is a state tool that plays a role in maintaining public security and order, enforcing the law, and providing protection, protection and service to the community in the context of maintaining internal security.

The police are an important part of the dynamics of criminal investigation activities, especially in the current era of globalization and reform, where people's demands for transparency, democracy, protection of human rights and the rule of law are increasing. In addition to the dynamics of people's lives that are developing, signs of change are increasingly difficult to read, so pre-emptive efforts are needed, sharp and accurate preventive and repressive measures to find out the crime through mastery of theory, skills and experience as well as the use of modern technology.

Society is one of the essential elements of a state, because without society the state will not work, no one will be governed or in other words no one will implement a policy taken by the state. Society cannot be separated from discussions about humans as subjects, because it is humans who drive the pattern or system of society. Humans as social beings interact with each other in one order of life. In everyday life, humans always think, evaluate and act on something that happens (objects they see), or in other words that humans have an attitude or response to something that happens in front of them which then creates a perception.

The crime of detention comes from the word straf (Dutch), which basically can be said to be an affliction (misery) that is intentionally inflicted or inflicted on someone who has been proven guilty of having committed a crime. According to Moeljatno in Muladi and Barda Nawawi Arief, the term punishment which comes from the word straf is a conventional term. Moeljatno uses the term unconventional, that is, crimes that can be subject to punishment according to criminal law provisions in the Netherlands are only actions (hendelingen) which are expressly stated by law as punishable. (L.J. Van Aperldom, 1985:336).

In Pasaman Regency, the problem of criminal acts is a major case that is uncovered by the police, especially for criminal investigators who are information seekers who are directly involved in carrying out investigations, in the form of disguises that go straight down to the community to find information on criminal acts that have occurred.

In the process of law enforcement carried out by the Police at the Pasaman District Police, the settlement resulted in instability of the existing line of work. Mr. Rudi Munanda, SH on December 28 2012 said that the investigation process required long enough time to make the community view the police apparatus as slow in carrying out their duties so that the community becomes less trusting in law enforcement efforts carried out by the Criminal Investigation Unit Police, Pasaman District Police.

Meanwhile, from interviews during initial observations with the community, Mr. Asmin on December 20 2012 said that it was not clear what follow-up or legal certainty had been carried out by the Police regarding reports or complaints from the public regarding the occurrence of crimes in society, while according to Mr. Rusdi that We don't feel that the socialization of law enforcement by the police is still lacking to the community, whereas according to Mr. Wenis, the police can move quickly if funding is provided by the community as reporters, as a form of disappointment from the community towards the low level of law enforcement.

From the explanation above, the actions taken by the police must act quickly in processing cases reported by the public, so that the community believes in the existence of the police and law enforcement provided by the police can be felt by the community.
however, all of this can happen if the cooperation between the police and the community is really needed, so that crimes that occur in the community do not become complicated in the resolution process.

From the description above, the public thinks that the police are not quick enough to take action because problems or cases that exist in the community have not been resolved by law enforcement officials, investigators should investigate cases in the community quickly, so that the public trusts the police. In carrying out tasks for security, protection and law enforcement against the community. The police must also disseminate information to the public about law enforcement so that the public also knows how the law enforcement process works because the low level of public awareness of the law also results in public distrust of law enforcers.

Based on the background above, the author can find out the basic problems that trigger people's unfavorable views of the police as law enforcement, so that people think the police can move quickly if there is funding provided by the community. That's why the researcher wants to know how the public perceives law enforcement officials, what are the procedures for reporting, what are the obstacles faced by the police in enforcing the law, and knowing what forms the police take in enforcing the law.

LITERATURE REVIEWS

Community Perception

The definition of society, there are several opinions put forward by experts as mentioned by Soekanto, 1990: 24 We call this ever-changing whole society. Society is a system of customs and procedures, of power and forms of reciprocity, of groups and division, of control over human behavior and habits. Masyurdin, 1994: 40 Perception can be defined as a form of a person's understanding of an object based on the experience and knowledge he has. Community perception means the community's understanding of what is seen from the behavior or actions of the police which will ultimately lead to people's attitudes towards the police.

From the above understanding, it can be defined that perception is a response, observation and giving an assessment to an object through sensing due to physical and social stimuli that exist in its environment. If we interpret society, then public perception is a response or assessment given by society to an object that is observed through its sensing devices. The process of receiving a stimulus until it is based on and understood is called perception.

The attitude of this community is very important to know, because from this attitude one can guess how the response or behavior taken by the person concerned is towards a problem or situation faced by him.

So, public perception is a process in which groups of people who live together in a certain area have opinions about something that attracts attention, in this case the object is the efforts of the police unit of investigation in law enforcement at the District Police Headquarters. Passover.

Law enforcement

Law enforcement according to Jimly Ashiddiqie is the process of making efforts to uphold or actually function legal norms as guidelines for behavior in traffic or legal relations in the life of society and the state. Law enforcement is viewed from the first two angles from the point of view of the subject, law enforcement can be carried out by the subject in a limited or narrow sense. In a broad sense, namely the process of law enforcement involves all legal subjects in every legal relationship. In a narrow sense, from the subject, namely, law enforcement is only interpreted as an effort by certain law enforcement officials to guarantee and ensure that a rule of law operates as it should. In ensuring the upholding of the law, law enforcement officials are required to be permitted to use coercive force. The second is the understanding of law enforcers from the point of view of the object, namely from a legal perspective. The meaning has a broad and narrow meaning. In a broad sense, law enforcement includes the values of justice contained in the sound of formal rules and the values of justice that live in society. In a narrow sense, law enforcement only concerns the enforcement of formal and written regulations.

Suharto quoted by R. Abdussalam mentioned that enforcement Law is a series of activities carried out by law enforcement officials both preventive and enforcement actions in implementing the provisions in force to create an atmosphere of security, peace and order for certainty common law.

Law is a means that contains values or concepts about justice, truth, social benefit and the content of this law is abstract. Law enforcement is essentially an enforcement of abstract ideas or concepts. Concrete law enforcement is the application of positive law in practice as it should be obeyed. Therefore providing justice in a case means deciding cases by applying the law and finding real law in maintaining and guaranteeing compliance with material law by using procedural methods determined by formal law.

Law enforcement in the State is carried out in a preventive, preventive and repressive manner. Preemptive law enforcement is a countermeasure to situational phenomena that can be categorized as correlative criminogenic factors, by observing each initial symptom and finding potential latent causes at the source. Preventive measures are held to prevent law violations from being committed by the public and this task is generally assigned to the executive and police burdens. Repressive law enforcement is carried out if preventive efforts have been made, it turns out that there are still efforts to violate the law. In this case the law must be enforced repressively by law enforcement agencies who are given judicial duties. Repressive law enforcement at the operational level is supported and through various institutions that are organizationally separate from one another, but still within the framework of law enforcement. In the first stage, repressive law enforcement starts from the Police Agency, then the prosecutor's office then continues with the courts and ends at the Penitentiary. Law enforcement is a process that is not simple because it involves legal subjects who perceive the law according to their respective interests, moral factors play a very important role in determining the legal style of a nation.

METHODS

The type of research used is qualitative research with descriptive research methods, namely research that tries to describe, tell, and interpret a situation or event that occurs as it really is. Qualitative research is a research approach that requires in-depth and thorough understanding of the object under study in order to answer the problem of obtaining data and then analyzing it and obtaining research conclusions in certain situations and conditions. (Iskandar, 2010: 17).

While the descriptive method according to Lexy J. Moleong (2006: 63) is a method by researching a group of humans, an object, a condition, a system of thought or an event in the present. Based on the information above, the type of research that is suitable for this research is quantitative research with descriptive methods because through this research the author will describe qualitatively how the public's perception of police efforts in law enforcement at the District Police Headquarters. Passover.

Lexy J. Moleong (2005:280) states data analysis is the process of arranging data sequences, organizing them into a pattern, category, and basic description set.

The data analysis method that will be used in qualitative research goes through several stages of data analysis (Lexy J. Moleong, 2005:288), namely:
1. Reduction
   Data obtained or collected, selected which is really needed or as main data and which is complete data and data that is not used is discarded, then the data is written or typed in the form of detailed descriptions or fields. The report selected the main points focused on important things systematically so that they are easier to master.

2. Data classification
   The data collected is then grouped.

3. Interpretation or meaning of data
   Giving significant meaning to the analysis, also explaining the description and looking for relationships between the dimensions of the description. The data that has been classified is then analyzed and explained by the author and the data obtained, in the form of an interconnected description.

4. Drawing conclusions or verification
   The data obtained is searched for meaning and conclusions are drawn which are initially tentative, vague, doubtful, but if added, the conclusions will be perfect.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Police Process Criminal Investigation Unit in Law Enforcement

The Criminal Investigation Unit, abbreviated as the Criminal Investigation Unit, as one of the elements implementing the main tasks of the police in the field of law enforcement and is part of the organizational structure of the Pasaman District Police, is tasked with conducting investigations and investigations of all criminal acts in accordance with the criminal procedure law and other laws and regulations in matters the authority to handle the process of investigating criminal cases reported by the public. The process of law enforcement by the Criminal Investigation Unit is very important where the Criminal Investigation Unit must maintain security and public order. The Criminal Investigation Unit in handling crimes that occur in society must comply with the law. So that it is not in accordance with the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code article 7 paragraph (1), it is mandatory to follow up on complaints or reports from the public by carrying out investigative and investigative efforts to seek and find evidence regarding the occurrence of criminal acts.

In the Criminal Code there is the term lack of evidence and evidence. Evidence includes expert testimony, witness statements, defendant statements, instructions, letters. While evidence is goods that are used to commit a crime, goods that are used to help commit a crime, objects that are the goal of committing a crime, objects that result from a crime, these objects can provide information for criminal investigators whether in the form of pictures or in the form of sound recordings, evidence which is supporting evidence has a very important position in a criminal case. But the presence of an item of evidence is not absolute in a criminal case, because there are several crimes which in the process of proving do not require evidence, such as the crime of insulting orally (article 310 paragraph 1 of the Criminal Code). So what distinguishes evidence from evidence is that evidence strengthens the position of legal evidence (Article 184 paragraph [1] of the Criminal Procedure Code). After evidence supports legal evidence, this evidence can strengthen the judge's belief in guilt.

However, in reality the community still has a negative assessment of the performance of the Criminal Investigation Unit because the community considers the Criminal Investigation Unit in the law enforcement process not to be objective in resolving problems/crimes reported by the public, these problems should be in accordance with the standard operating procedures (SOP) that complaint service mechanisms from the public include:

1. Receive and serve guests well
2. Receive an explanation of the intent and purpose of the complainant
3. Receiving and making reports of complaints/police reports as well as recording/scheduling
4. Make and submit a letter of acceptance of a police report (SPLP) to the complainant/complainant
5. Provide information/explanation regarding the mechanism and standard timeframe for handling reports/complainants
6. Forward the complainant/reporter, other witnesses along with evidence (if any) to the provos center to carry out the complaint/BAP examination process
7. Assess the problems reported by the complainant/reporter
8. Handing over reports of complaints/police reports and preliminary dossiers as well as evidence in accordance with their capacities
9. Issuing a letter of notification of follow-up handling of the case to the complainant/victim witness

Service and complaint process
1. Receive and serve guests well
2. Receive explanations and objectives from the complainant
3. Analyze and evaluate the problems presented
4. Coordinate with superiors/authorized officials according to the problem
5. Submit the required product (when available)
6. Provide information/explanation regarding the mechanism and standard timeframe for completing the handling of reports/complaints

The police officers from the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police should carry out their duties in accordance with the procedures stipulated by law and the public should not be too quick to judge the performance of the police because dealing with problems or crimes takes quite a long time.

Obstacles Faced by Criminal Investigation Unit Police in Law Enforcement

According to Soerjono Soekanto said that law enforcement in its implementation will be greatly influenced by several factors, such as community factors, facilities and infrastructure, culture, laws and the legal apparatus itself. In carrying out investigations/investigations into crimes, obstacles are certainly encountered in the law enforcement process, including:

1. Insufficient number of criminal unit personnel

   The obstacle encountered by the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police in terms of personnel is the lack of personnel when carrying out investigations. Based on the results of my research, it was found that currently the number of Criminal Investigation Unit police personnel is lacking while the community reports many problems, so that the police find it difficult to supervise and monitor every action taken by the community. The police also cannot optimally monitor crimes that occur in society. The large number of people currently makes it unbalanced or incompatible with the many Criminal Investigation Unit police personnel, so good cooperation is expected between the Criminal Investigation Unit police and the people of Pasaman Regency in order to create security and comfort in society.

2. Facilities and infrastructure

   Supporting facilities can simply be formulated as a means to an end. Its scope is mainly physical facilities that function as supporting factors. Supporting facilities include educated and skilled human resources, good organization, adequate equipment, adequate finances and so on. From the results of the interviews and observations that the researchers conducted in terms of facilities and infrastructure at the Police Criminal Investigation Unit, the Pasaman District Police were inadequate, namely there were only 5 computers and 2 laptops, there were also 2 cameras, only 10 polysletters, and 20 identification tools, the District Police should have Pasaman has adequate facilities and infrastructure such as 10 computers, 8 laptops, 7 cameras, and 14 polysletters. The police in carrying out their duties are not only using force, but the police also need other supporting equipment such as electronic devices (computers) that are in accordance with developments era, while at the Pasaman District Police, there are computers besides that the police also need adequate service vehicles in accordance with the size of the area that will be secured by the Criminal Investigation Unit police personnel. There are only 6 4-wheeled vehicles, 2 and 2-wheeled vehicles, while what is needed is 4-wheeled and 10-wheeled four-wheeled vehicles to monitor, supervise security, carry out other patrolling actions in every legal area of Pasaman Regency and to carry out investigations. / investigation to the scene of the crime in the legal area of Pasaman Regency. The complete supporting facilities and infrastructure that are in accordance with the times can narrow down the occurrence of crime in society.

In fact, according to Soerjono Soekanto, the factor of facilities or facilities that assist law enforcement, it is impossible for law enforcement to proceed smoothly without adequate facilities or facilities.

Therefore the completeness of facilities and infrastructure at the Pasaman District Police is an important factor in the smooth running of the law enforcement process. What if the facilities and infrastructure are incomplete then law enforcement activities will also be disrupted. For this reason, more complete facilities and infrastructure are needed to support the performance of the police apparatus.

So based on the above, it appears that facilities and infrastructure are still lacking at the Pasaman District Police, in carrying out the law enforcement process, complete facilities and infrastructure are needed so that the tasks assigned to the Criminal Investigation Unit police officers run smoothly.

3. Fund

Another obstacle is the operational costs of carrying out an investigation to deal with a case that is difficult to prove, which is always constrained by funds, because the budget for funds does not match the large number of cases handled by the police. In dealing with crimes, the budgeted funds are not in accordance with or insufficient with the funds released in the field, so the police must first seek the lack of funds for the investigation. additional funds from his superiors. The funds needed in handling crimes for serious cases are 124,000,000, funds for moderate cases are 7,000,000 to 9,000,000, and for easy cases funds 5,000,000 of these funds are used for the investigation process. So that's what caused the investigation process carried out by the Pasaman District Police Criminal Investigation Unit to be hampered.

4. Community support

Community support is very important in uncovering a crime that occurred, because everything starts with the community and it is the community who knows a lot about the events that occurred. The police are very dependent on the community and need the community's assistance in dismantling a case. However, in reality the community is afraid to interfere or be involved in the matter, because the community considers it a waste of time, or they feel afraid and their lives will be threatened if the perpetrator takes revenge. Because the community did not want to cooperate, the police became overwhelmed and found it difficult to uncover a case that occurred in the Pasaman District community. The form of community support in the law enforcement process is by providing clear information about the crimes that have occurred so that they can assist the police in conducting investigations. From the results of the interviews and observations that the researchers conducted, it was seen that the community did not want to provide information because they were afraid that their testimony would endanger themselves. In giving witness testimony, witnesses should receive legal protection as contained in Law No. 13 of 2006 concerning the Protection of Witnesses and Victims where this protection is carried out by the Witness and Victim Protection Agency (LPSK) and is not a direct responsibility of the Police. If a witness asks to be given protection, the Police are only tasked with reporting to the Witness and Victim Protection Agency (LPSK).

Meanwhile, according to Soerjono Soekanto, law enforcement comes from the community, and aims to achieve peace in society. Therefore, from a certain point of view, society can influence law enforcement. So community support is needed by the police to speed up the investigation process and provide additional evidence for the handling of crime cases. The community should be able to provide support to the Criminal Investigation Unit police officers by giving clear testimony or providing clear information so that the law can be upheld in society.

5. Limited human resources (police)

One of the obstacles in the implementation of the coordination function by the Criminal Investigation Unit police is caused by the factor of human resources (HR) both in terms of communication skills and approaches as well as the number of members. Judging from the educational background of the members of the Criminal Investigation Unit, most of them are still relatively high school students. Faced with the burden of work carried out and demands for good coordination, the ability of the human resources (HR) of members of the Criminal Investigation Unit is one of the obstacles in efforts to realize eradicating crime in society.

The required qualifications of human resources (HR) have more knowledge to carry out investigations. Qualifications are needed for the investigation process because qualified human resources (HR) determine the smooth running of the investigation process. This demand is very heavy because of the complex situation and condition of society with various problems that have the potential to disturb and threaten public order and security. The limited ability of human resources (HR) members in coordinating with the community is one of the obstacles in the implementation of coordination.

Some people think that the Criminal Investigation Unit police have not been able to cooperate with the community because some of the Criminal Investigation Unit police seem arrogant and unsympathetic. So human resources (HR) is one of the obstacles in implementing cooperative relations with the community in creating security in the people of Pasaman Regency.

Efforts Made by the Criminal Investigation Unit Police to Overcome Obstacles in Law Enforcement at the Pasaman District Police

To deal with various obstacles in the process of investigation and investigation, the police, the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police made various efforts to overcome these obstacles by carrying out various methods such as:

1. Insufficient number of criminal unit personnel

   Efforts to overcome the obstacles encountered by police officers, the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police, by providing opportunities for police officers who wish to continue their education to be equipped with knowledge about investigations and investigations so that they become professional and professional criminal units. The Criminal Investigation Unit police officers also added additional members to the Criminal Investigation Unit in accordance with the required disciplines through tests.
Some of the opinions above can be concluded that the only effort to overcome the obstacles that the author encountered was the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman Regency Police, by providing opportunities for criminal unit officers who wish to continue their education to become professional and professional officers. The Criminal Investigation Unit is also making efforts to add personnel in accordance with scientific disciplines by going through tests.

2. Fund

Efforts to obtain additional funds and for the continuity of the smooth process of investigations and investigations by the Police Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman Regency Police to obtain additional funds in carrying out investigations and investigations are with supply funds. Funds disbursed for an undetermined need. When the Criminal Investigation Unit needs funds and the funds run out, but investigators must make accountability for the use of the money along with the evidence, only then can additional supply funds be obtained.

3. Community support

The efforts of the Police Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police to gain community support or cooperation between the police and the community are urgently needed so that they can assist the Criminal Investigation Unit officers in carrying out investigations and investigations in the jurisdiction of Pasaman Regency. By way of the police apparatus conducting outreach about law enforcement to the public, especially people who do not want to cooperate with the police for reasons of fear, they will be equipped with knowledge about the law so that they will want to cooperate with the police.

Based on the above, the effort to overcome obstacles in law enforcement for community support is through socialization to people who do not understand the law, especially people who are afraid to become witnesses or report their problems to the Criminal Investigation Unit apparatus.

4. Limited human resources (police)

Efforts made to overcome the obstacles to the limited human resources possessed by the police are to equip the Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman Regency Police so that they can carry out professional and professional investigations of problems reported by the people of Pasaman Regency. With the rapid progress in various fields, especially the occurrence of criminal acts, the police are required to be more professional in carrying out investigative tasks which are increasingly difficult to detect, by continuing to study and learn to become professional police in preventing crimes from occurring in Pasaman Regency. The Police Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman Regency Police are always equipped with communication and approach skills, as well as the number of members who are always tested to be made into criminal units both in the investigative and investigation departments at the Pasaman Regency Police.

Public Perceptions of the Criminal Investigation Unit Police’s Efforts in Law Enforcement

Perception is a view by someone of something that is seen, whether it can give a good or bad impression. Meanwhile, in a broad sense, it is the view or understanding of how someone perceives or interprets something. But in reality, until now there are still many crimes that occur in the midst of the community in Pasaman Regency. Based on interviews that have been conducted in Pasaman District, it can be seen how the views expressed by the community, among others, are of the view that law enforcement by the police is currently not good. This is because in resolving the problem the Criminal Investigation Unit only follows up if the community has provided compensation to the Criminal Investigation Unit, this causes the community to be reluctant to report crimes that have occurred so that the community takes its own action against criminal acts.

From the results of the interview above, it can be concluded that only in Pasaman District law enforcement by the Criminal Investigation Unit was not good, this was seen when following up on problems/reports submitted by the community. The Criminal Investigation Unit will not follow up on problems/reports if they are not rewarded. So that it causes harm to society. The Criminal Investigation Unit of the Pasaman District Police should carry out its duties to the maximum extent possible so that a negative assessment of the Criminal Investigation Unit does not occur. As stated by Richardson in Persudi Suparlan (2004: 68) explains that the main function of the police is to maintain order and at all times to maintain the services of citizens who need them, not to fight crime and enforce the law or regulate public morality.

CONCLUSION
1. Unit Police Criminal investigations as law enforcers require quite a long time in carrying out arrests of suspects, detaining suspects, searching, confiscating, examining suspects and witnesses of crimes in order to obtain information, clarity from witnesses and evidence. However, in the eyes of the public, the process of law enforcement by members of the police is clear.

2. The obstacles faced by the Indonesian state police in enforcing the law are such as the lack of number of police personnel of the Criminal Investigation Unit, the facilities and infrastructure owned by the Criminal Investigation Unit police, lack of operational costs, lack of support from the community in law enforcement or the absence of community participation in efforts to police in law enforcement when the police need assistance from the community, and limited human resources (police).

3. Efforts made by the Criminal Investigation Police Unit to overcome obstacles in law enforcement at the Pasaman District Police are by increasing the number of personnel, completing facilities and infrastructure, seeking additional funds with supply funds, providing outreach to the community so that they get support from the community, so that human resources (police) adequate police Criminal Investigation Unit provide provision of knowledge of investigations and investigations.

4. The people of Pasaman Regency are of the view that the current performance of the police is not good, but there are various positive and negative assessments from the community. The good and bad image of the Police also depends on the attitude of society, being apathetic, reactive, critical or satisfied with the performance of the Police so far. A policeman with commendable character who can position himself as a moralist, father, friend, servant, and a figure to be admired and respected. This means that the dignity and honor of Polri members can be seen from the amount of public appreciation and recognition of their profession.
